Spatial caption (two-call)

In the image, a model is positioned centrally, wearing an intricate, avant-garde costume predominantly made of white materials. The headpiece is elaborate, situated atop the model's head, featuring sculptural elements such as pointed horns and cascading strands resembling shredded paper or fabric, which extend downward. The upper garment is a fitted, metallic-looking silver corset with star-shaped accents and protruding cone-like structures near the chest. The lower portion of the outfit flows outward into a voluminous white skirt with vertical pleats, providing a smooth surface around the lower body. The model's arms are bare except for white gloves that contrast with the outfit's metallic and white tones. The background is dark, emphasizing the costume's unique design and detailing. For manipulation, the most accessible approach would be from an angle slightly in front of and to the side of the model, allowing clear access to both the headpiece and the skirt while avoiding interference with the delicate strands. There is ample free space around the model, facilitating unobstructed movement.
