The silver star-shaped bodice is accessible from the front, but the model’s arms block lateral access. Obstacles: model’s torso and arms. Placement zone: the center of the star’s surface. Type A — Spatial scene description

The image is a collage of home decor items arranged in a grid-like layout within a white border. On the far left, a window with teal curtains is positioned above a white louvered cabinet. Below the window is a small wooden chair and a mint green chest of drawers. In the center, a circular white table sits atop a striped rug, flanked by two small vases and a decorative bowl. Above the table are two framed botanical prints and a small umbrella. To the right of the table, a set of hanging decorative items and a framed patterned fabric sample are displayed. In the top right corner, a photograph of a living room with white furniture and teal accents is shown. Below that, a photograph of a woman in a blue dress stands on a wooden deck. I am a robot arm preparing to interact with this mood board. I will approach the turquoise curtain from the left, avoiding the framed artwork above. The clearest placement zone is the white surface beneath the curtain. For the framed botanical print, I'll approach from the front-left, clearing the small decorative item to its left. The white linen pillow is accessible from the front, with the framed artwork above as a minor obstacle. I'll place items on the central white surface, which is mostly unobstructed except for a few small decor pieces near the bottom-right corner. I will prioritize objects with clear approach paths and minimal surrounding clutter for safe manipulation.
